

Latest Reviews:

- Wacom Graphire4 4x5" Digital Tablet
- Contor Backpack
- Marware: Sportfolio for Mac mini
- XtremeMac: Shuffle SuperClip

Latest Articles:

- Digital Videos Part 1
- Apple iSight
- Apple Bluetooth Keyboard
- Installing RAM In A G5 iMac

Today's News...Police use iPod to identify hit-and-run victim

The San Jose Mercury News quotes an Associated Press report which describes how Apple Computer's ubiquitous iPod digital music player was used to identify a victim of a hit and run accident in San Francisco last Thursday.

27 year old Ashlyn Dyer was jogging in a park early Thursday morning when she was hit by a car before being discovered by a park employee at approximately 7am. Police who arrived on the scene took her iPod to a nearby Apple Store which contacted Apple's Cupertino, California HQ which managed to retrieve her particulars.

Dyer's parents arrived in San Fran Friday with the young lady who is in critical condition. Our thoughts are with her.

Source: San Jose Mercury News

04 Mar 2006 - Posted by kris - 0 Comments -

LA Apple Store Free iPod giveaway

ifoAppleStore reports that certain Macintosh users in Southern California have received emails from the Apple Store in Beverly Hills of an upcoming promo which will lead to the store giving away a free iPod every day in the month of March. The iPods involved are either the 30GB iPod Video, the 2GB Nano and the 512MB Shuffle.

The offer is limited to the Beverly Hills Store only as there is no news of this promotion being repeated across the nation or the globe. Good luck to any iOnMacers who want to try their luck.

More information can be found here

